Curating your work and getting your work heard

Details on curating are at this link:

<https://www.billtroxler.com/extrra---be-your-own-curator.html>

Curating comes down to three tasks:

1. Document and categorize
2. Store and Share
3. Produce (maybe even sell!)

follow the link above for many specific details, links and resources

Getting your work heard means getting out in public and performing.

The best places are:

- libraries
- museums
- festivals
- school programs
- local radio shows
- YouTube.com
- SoundCloud.com

The worse places are:

- bars
- restaurants
- family picnics

Busking is in a category by itself. It's time consuming. Success in getting your work out in the public requires that product is available.

When you have a fan base, consider opening an account on Patreon.com or Bandcamp.com.
